Choosing the Best Solution for Your Team's Needs

WILMOT

MODULAR STRUCTURES, Inc.

We Help Build Visions

Mobile Office vs Container Office

When deciding between a mobile office or a container office, there are several factors to consider. Both mobile offices and container offices are portable solutions that can be used as temporary or permanent workspaces. However, there are some key differences between the two.

Comparison Chart

Let's take a look at some key points to keep in mind

Mobile Office

Container Office

Mobile offices are built on trailers or chassis, allowing easy transportation and frequent moves.

Once set up, container offices are more stationary and not designed for frequent moves like mobile offices.

Mobile offices are available in various sizes, providing relatively spacious working environments and accommodating multiple individuals comfortably.

Container offices are built using standard shipping containers, which come in fixed sizes, potentially limiting available space.

Mobile offices can be customized to suit specific requirements, with options for amenities, interior layout, and design.

While limited compared to mobile offices, container offices can be modified to include insulation, lighting, windows, doors, and basic amenities.

Container offices are built using standard shipping containers, which come in fixed sizes, potentially limiting available space.

Mobile offices can be costlier, especially for long-term use, compared to container offices.

Container offices are often more cost-effective, especially if you plan to purchase and reuse the container.

Mobile offices are typically available for rent or purchase from specialized companies, which may limit their availability in some areas.

COST AVAILABILITY

Shipping containers are widely available, making container offices easily accessible.

Mobile offices can be designed to look like traditional office buildings with professional finishes and furnishing.

Containers can be modified with paint, cladding, or additional elements to enhance their appearance.

While they can be energy-efficient, mobile offices may have a higher environmental impact compared to Repurposing shipping containers reduces the need for new construction materials, making it an environmentally friendly option.

container offices due to their reliance on new construction materials.

WILMOT MODULAR STRUCTURES, Inc.

We Help Build Visions

Choosing between a mobile office and a container office depends on your specific requirements, mobility needs, budget, and duration of use. Mobile offices provide more flexibility and amenities but can be costlier, while container offices offer affordability and a simpler setup but with less mobility and customization options. Reach out to discuss these options with one of our experienced account managers, who will help get you set up in the best space solution for your team!